DETAILED ACTION

1. In view of the appeal brief filed on 11-7-07, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. New grounds of rejection are set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) initiate a new appeal by filing a notice of appeal under 37 CFR 41.31 followed by an appeal brief under 37 CFR 41.37. The previously paid notice of appeal fee and appeal brief fee can be applied to the new appeal. If, however, the appeal fees set forth in 37 CFR 41.20 have been increased since they were previously paid, then appellant must pay the difference between the increased fees and the amount previously paid.

A Supervisory Patent Examiner (SPE) has approved of reopening prosecution by signing below:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1 through 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The applicant has failed to keep a consistent definition of "range rate" in the claims and this has resulted in the claims failing to claim what is described. On page 3 of the specification, in lines 4-5, range rate is described as being position when the current and target vehicle are increasing in distance from each other and when negative the host vehicle is closing in on a lead motor vehicle. In the appeal brief there are instances where the applicant has given two different definitions to range rate. On the last four lines of page 10 of the brief the applicant states that range rate is positive when the lead vehicle is pulling away. However, on page 11 of the appeal brief, on lines 12-13, a positive range rate is said to indicate the host vehicle is closing in on the lead vehicle. Clearly, using the definition of range rate of the specification, the current claims fail to recite what is described in the specification. Looking at claim 1, the invention is supposed to operate by decreasing the measured range when the difference between the initial and current range contradict the information determine from the range rate. The condition used in the claim is when the initial range to the target is less than the current range (the range has increased) and then the range rate remains above the predetermined rate (lead vehicle getting farther away). These two conditions do not contradict each other and based on what is disclosed in the specification there should be no need to provide and offset to the measured range. In order to claim what is disclosed in the specification, the range rate would need to stay below the predetermined rate, not above as currently claimed.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
5. Claim 1 recites the limitation "the range rate" in lines 11 and 15. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
6. Claim 9 recites the limitation "the range rate" in lines 18 and 22. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
7. Claim 17 recites the limitation "the range rate" in lines 19 and 23. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
8. The remaining claims are rejected by virtue of dependency.

Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The rejection under 35 USC 112, 1st paragraph has been clarified in view of the arguments made in the appeal brief.

Allowable Subject Matter

10. Claim 22 is allowed.
